A Kissing Song.

Let me kiss her for her mother,
The bewitching Polly Ann,
Let me kiss her for her mother,
Or any other man.

Let me kiss her for somebody,
Anybody in the world,
With her hair so sweetly auburn,
And so gloriously curled.

Let me kiss her for her feller,
And I don't care a red,
If he taps me on the smeller,
With his billy made of lead.

Let me kiss her for daddy,
The pretty pouting elf,
And if it don't suit the family,
Why I'll kiss her for myself!

The Last Paper Dollar.

'Tis the last paper dollar,
Left folded alone;
All its for companions
Made use of and gone.

No silver relation,
Nor gold one is nigh,
Wherewith I would purchase
The things I would buy.

I'll not leave this lonely,
Dejected and sad;
Though I have but the only,
Of all that I had.

The others I needed,
And used all but thee;
Thou only remainest,
To buy aught for me.

And thou too, must follow,
Must go the same way;
For I have occasion
To use thee to-day;

And 'twere not in kindness,
Thy kindred all down,
To let the remain in
My pocket alone.

The Situation in Abyssinia.

Sharp Strategy of Theodoros—England to send Sepoys to fight him.

The Paris Patrie, of July 28, published and indorses a letter, in reference to the proposed English expedition into Abyssinia, from a well known French traveler, the Count du Bisson. After some preliminary remarks, he thus sums up the situation:

And now the cruel alternative presented to Great Britain is this: Either to make war against King Theodoros of Abyssinia, or abandon the English prisoners to their melancholy fate. Look at the news that reaches us from Gondar. As the Moniteur has announced, the Negus is at the foot of the Debrachador with 40,000 men. But this is not the whole of his active force. Other bodies of troops hold in check the few insurgent chief whose influence has greatly diminished since the total defeat of the army of Goubarie. A division of 20,000 men is concentrated between Gondar and Matamah, or Galaber, and the Tigris is occupied by a like number of fusiliers.

The Emperor, Theodoros, knows that England is preparing an expedition against him. He awaits it without alarm, and without fearing it. The orders are given to defend vigorously all the defiles, to break up the roads already detestable; to burn the towns and villages; to poison all the running streams with the bodies of animals; to destroy the forests with fire and sword; to give war, always in fighting, without getting engaged; and to make before the invaders, not a desert, but a veritable Atmouir.

As we have written, there is no capital in Abyssinia. Such is the Emperor's will. The strong places no longer exist there. The object of attack for an invading army is totally wanting. Or, to be exact, there is one, only one—the Emperor! The Emperor, he is the true capital; he is the Abyssinia; he is all the rest, rocks, earth, trees; nothing more. Around the tent of Theodoros, in a single night, a powerful city rises up, and in an hour, by the monarch's order, it disappears. Thus, with that African smile, full of subtlety, playing on his thin lips, he says to his courtiers: "The English will see what they have never yet seen, a phantom capital! That sight is well worth the trouble of making the journey."

The system of tactics adopted by the Emperor, and evidenced by the instructions given to his generals is this: To weaken, decimate the English army by privations, diseases, forced marches, heat incessant night attacks, and not to accept battle, save in his own day and hour.

In all the churches, in all the public places, it is announced that the enemy comes to destroy, in Abyssinia, the sacred worship of the Holy Virgin Mary; that the Mussulmans are their allies; and that all Abyssinia has to choose between apostasy and combat. By those skillful tactics he has succeeded in rallying many dissentments, in arousing the fanaticism of the people.

The priests are with him and sustain him by their burning discourses.

"A war of partisans, a war without quarter or mercy, a war of extermination."

"For the brave, fallen in battle, paradise and immortality."

"For the survivors, victory."

"For the coward, if any such are found, curses and hell."

Such is the cry which the priests now raise, cross in hand. To occupy Abyssinia under such conditions, fifty thousand strangers would not suffice. And the idea of searing Theodoros by an ultimatum, is simply idle; it is not to know that man, made up of courage, audacity will. England will fail, and the dead bodies of her soldiers furnish the landmarks for all the roads of the empire.

The English prisoners, it is said, are worse treated and more closely confined than ever. That was to have been expected. All the letters received, and one of the most intimate counsellors of the negroes, are unanimous on this point—that the heads of all the prisoners will fall on the day that the first hostile column shall enter Abyssinia. The resolution of Theodoros is irrevocable. Thus will it be. The British expedition can neither hold the country, nor get possession of Theodoros, nor reimburse itself for its expenses. It will obtain but one result—the massacre of the unhappy prisoners. Such is the intelligence we have just received, and which, for humanity's sake, we make known to the advisers of Queen Victoria.

Signed Comte R. du Bisson."

This, certainly, is not a pleasant entertainment to be invited to; and in view of the different rumors, coming from Abyssinia, it is no matter of wonder that Lord Stanley, the other day, declined to lay before Parliament the Ministry's plan of operations. The last report is that Sepoys, from India, are to be employed in the proposed campaign against Abyssinia. What chance have they against the troops and tactics of the Emperor Theodoros; or what the probability that the English expedition will succeed in reaching his "Phantom Capital"—time must tell.

Protest of Gov. Throckmorton

A Harrowing Recital of Federal Outrages.

We are in receipt of the Texas State Gazette, containing a lengthy protest by Gov. Throckmorton, against the order of Sheridan removing him from the office to which he had been called by the voice of his people. We cannot find room for the entire document, but the following extract will show how strong is the case the Governor makes out against the oppressors:

The property of citizens has been used without compensation—not in a few isolated cases, but in many; not alone the property of those who engaged in the war against, but of those also who were through the struggle, and are yet loyal to the loyal to the General Government. Wellington, punished with great severity, any interference with private property, by his officers or soldiers. Scott and Taylor pursued the same course in Mexico. It has been the boast of the Government and the people that they did so. Yet here, when the strife of countrymen had ceased, and after the highest authority in the nation had proclaimed the glad tidings of peace, our people are not entitled to the same consideration as Frenchmen were, at a time when they had deluged Europe in blood, and had pillaged almost its entire population, or the Mexican people, who had violated all the rules of civilized warfare.

The freedmen's bureau has exercised powers not conferred upon it; its agencies have made arrests, and imposed penalties not justified by the law, nor sustained by reason. Under pretence that the civil rights act had been violated, citizens have been arrested and restrained of their liberty, without the process or forms required by law, and for offenses alleged to have been committed long anterior to its passage.

The town of Brenham was set on fire by United States soldiers, and a large amount of property destroyed. If the deed was not instigated by the officer in command, it was perpetrated almost in his immediate vicinity, and no effort was made to prevent it.

The judgements and decrees of the courts have been prevented from being executed, and have been ordered to be set aside, and indictments and papers in criminal and civil causes have been forcibly taken and destroyed, and the judges required to dismiss suits in a number of cases.

A decree of the district court of the United States, for the Western District of Texas was interfered with, and for a short time, its execution was prevented.

Freedmen charged by indictment with high crimes have been protected from arrest and trial. One charged with an attempt at rape upon a white girl, 14 years of age was taken from jail by the order of an agent of the bureau, and when the facts were made known, the agent was not punished, nor the criminal returned to the officers of the law.

Two citizens, arrested by and in custody of a company of soldiers, were murdered in less than an hour after their arrest, by the person (himself a fugitive from justice,) who pointed them out, and at whose instigation they were arrested. Upon the testimony of soldiers, who were present, the officer in command was indicted as accessory to the murder, yet he was not delivered up for trial.

The following is a specimen of some of the orders that have been issued—this by an officer of the grade of 1st Lieutenant:

It having come to my knowledge, that lawless men, perjured traitors, enemies of law, order and of the United States sympathizers, aiders and abettors of Burns and Clerk, thieves, outlaws and assassins, have been engaged in making threats, and in other notorious, disorderly and disloyal conduct; and it having come to my knowledge, that certain numerous citizens here and in the vicinity of this post, profess to be opposed to these lawless scoundrels, and to be friendly to and willing to aid in the maintaining the authority of the United States Government. This is therefore to notify the former that for the first overt act no quarters will be given, and the latter that they will be held responsible in person and property.

Under order of this officer for arrest of citizens, a house was surrounded at night, two of the inmates were shot, bayoneted and beaten with the butts of guns. The excuse was that resistance was made and the soldiery fired on.

The dying declarations of one of the men slain, corroborated by the sworn statement of the survivors of the family, were, that the house was surrounded by men unknown to them and their surrender demanded, which at first was refused. But when the father was informed that the military authority of the United States demanded the arrest of his two sons, the officer was informed that they would yield, and he was invited to come into the house, and that upon the entrance of the officer, followed by some of the men, the work of death commenced. This man stated further, that when he had partially revived, from the wounds he had received, hearing the crowd in the yard, he seized his gun and fired on them, and then crawled out and extinguished the fire at the end of the house. Other testimony showed that the fire had been kindled as stated. The Executive of the State informed Maj. Gen. Griffin of the occurrences, and with out expressing censure or exculpating the citizens of any offense, expressed the fear that a great wrong had been committed, and made a request that a commission of army officers should investigate the acts. His request was not complied with.

A gentleman in Iowa advertises for a wife who wears her own hair, her own teeth, her own buzzum, and her own calves, without having gone and went and paid for them.

"My dear," said an affectionate spouse to her husband, "am I not your only treasure? Oh, yes, and I would willingly lay it up in heaven," was the cool reply.

"I never knew but one woman," said Sir Robert Walyole, "whom I could not bribe with money. It was Lady S—, and she took diamonds."

Somebody says a wife should be like a roasted lamb—tender and nicely dressed. A scamp adds, and without any sauce.

How Sal Disgraced the Family.—A traveler, in the State of Illinois, some years ago, came to a log hut on the prairies, near Decatur, and there halted. He went into the house of logs. It was a wretched affair, with an empty packing-box for a table, where two or three old chairs and disabled stools graced the reception room, the dark walls of which were ornamented by a display of tin-ware, and a broken dell article or two.

The woman was crying in the corner, and the man, with tears in his eyes and a pipe in his mouth, sat on a stool, with his dirty arms resting on his knees, and his sorrowful looking head supported by the palm of his hands.

Not a word greeted the interloper.

"Well," said he, "you seem to be in awful trouble here; what's up?"

"Oh! we are most crazed neighbor, and we can't get no patience to see folks now," said the old woman.

"That is all right," said the visitor, "not much taken aback by his polite rebuff; but can't I be of some service to you?"

"Well, we've lost our gal. Our Sal has gone off and left us," said the man.

"Ah! do you know what induced her to leave you?" remarked the new arrival.

"Well, we can't say, stranger, as she's so far lost to us as to be induced; but then she's gone and disgraced us," remarked the afflicted father.

"Yes, neighbor, and not that I say it as her mother, but there warn't a poorer gal in the West than she was, and she's gone and brought ruin on us and on her own head now," said the stricken mother.

"Whom has she gone with?" asked the visitor.

"Well, there's the trouble," said the father. "The gal could have done well, and could have done well, and could have married Martin Kehoe, a capital shoemaker, who, although he's got but one eye, plays the fute in a lively manner, and earns a good living. Then look what a home and what a life she has deserted. She was surrounded by all the luxury in the country."

"Yes, who knows what poor Sal will have to eat, drink or wear now?" groaned the old woman.

"And who is this fellow that has taken her from you, to lead her into such misery," said he.

"Why, she's gone off and got married to a critter called an editor, as lives in the village, and the devil knows how they are to earn a living."

The young lady in Texas, who advertised for a husband, says she can talk philosophy as well as rock the cradle.

Mosby Snooks says the reason he does not marry is, that the house is too small to contain the consequences.

"Would I were a man," exclaimed a strong minded woman. "Would that you were," exclaimed the husband.

Capital weather, Mr. Jones, capital weather. My wife's got such a cold she cannot speak. I like such weather.

"Husband, I must have some change to-day." Well stay at home and take care of the children, that will be change enough.

"Well," said a doctor to a polite man, whose wife he had been attending, how is your wife to-day? "She is dead, I thank you."

DEATH OF GOV. HELM.

We regret to announce that Gov John L. Helm died at his residence at Elizabethtown, on Sunday, September, the 8th. He had been ill about four weeks. The people have lost a governor, a statesman and a christian gentleman. His death has cast a gloom over our country, and the people mourn the loss of a true friend, whose place cannot be filled. No man in Kentucky had as many warm friends as Gov. Helm. His faithful adherence to principle, strict integrity, firmness and undoubted ability, gave him an unbounded influence. We might say that it was but yesterday that the great and good man stood face to face with the people, and spoke to them.

His venerable head, but sparkling countenance, and powerful eye, gave us assurance that his life would be spared many days of usefulness yet to come—but he has gone from among us.

He was buried on Tuesday, the 10th inst., with Masonic honors.

In and about Washington City there seems to be a quietness, a cool respectful, law abiding disposition on the part of the people, and with those who have charge of the execution of the laws a spirit of peace and good will toward all men is manifesting itself. This good spirit has been hovering around that city for a few days only, but we hope it may continue, and that its influence may be seen and felt throughout the whole country: When good men rule the people rejoice, but when Stanton & Co., were the controlling spirits, the country was full of sorrow.

If Congress would cease to make laws for the benefit of a class of people who do not, and cannot appreciate that which we would call their disinterested philanthropy. Of this, however, it would be useless to speak, for a hellish, negroizing spirit has taken possession of Congress, and they seem determined to violate God's laws, as well as the laws of man. Let them continue in their fell purposes. Their own progeny will curse them hereafter, and many will curse themselves before they give up the ghost. We hope, however, that some good may grow out of all this evil.

Last Friday evening Paris was in a terrible ferment. The Fair was on hand, and the city was filled with strangers, a few of whom was under the influence of whisky. A colored man shot a white man, and wounded him severely, and in fact it was believed that the wound would prove fatal. He was arrested and placed in jail. As the news of the shooting began to spread among the people, a spirit of mobocracy began to grow, until the shout of "hang him," was heard in several parts of the city, and this increased spirit for violence continued until it broke out in earnest; and a rush was made by a crowd upon the jail for the purpose of taking him out of the hands of the officers of the law. All the influential and respectable citizens of Paris and surrounding country, opposed the mob, and by strong appeals to reason saved the people of that place from a disgrace, which in the eyes of a radical majority in the North, would have been termed execrable. We were pleased to know and see that the spirit of lawlessness could be pacified; that men had not lost all their reason; that they had some respect for the majesty of the law, and that when they were shown the danger of its violation they were willing to yield so gracefully.

What was done for the negro, was done quickly. It was necessary that it should be so, for his salvation as well as for the good name of the city, as we had seldom seen a more determined spirit exhibited for violence on the part of any body of men.

Judge Hawes moved about among them, in earnest, making strong appeals for peace and quietness. Gen. Williams made a strong speech at the Court-house door, and begged them not to do so great an outrage in the face of right and justice, as to hang the negro without a trial, assuring them that if the negro was guilty of murder, that the people of Bourbon county, would punish him. His speech had a fine effect, and when he was through, but few could be found singing "hang him," and they were among the last men who had sufficient courage to try it on. They had strong lungs for shouting, but their cowardice was too great for active measures, and they sneaked off, satisfied that they had brought themselves into contempt. We know many brave and clever young men, who favored violence toward the negro, but they made no noise about it. They would have participated actively in the hanging. But they were reasonable, and listened attentively to the speeches made, and yielded readily to the truths announced to them. When they were quieted, the fierceness of the mob spirit had relented, and the danger passed. Paris, that night, was as quiet as a church-yard for the storm was over.

We are opposed to mobs under all circumstances. We have never believed in mobs, and we cannot believe that a man is a good citizen, who favors a spirit of the kind. This land is one of law and order, and the security for its enforcement is based upon the intelligence and toleration of the people. When a man violates the law, he is arrested and punished, if an enforcement is permitted. In this State, hereafter, the laws will be enforced. The Democratic party of the State has pledged its faith for its enforcement, and it would have been the duty of the Governor to have brought every man, connected with that mob, if they had been permitted to carry out their wild designs, to trial and punishment. Every true Democrat will oppose mobocracy, for they have certainly felt its terrible effects laid upon them during the last six years, by the radical mob, which has devastated most of this country South of the Ohio river. The radical party is nothing but a mob. They have violated the constitution, as well as the laws, for their great head, I had Stevens, says so. Had that negro been hung by a mob, in Paris, last Friday night, the radicals would have sent a bigger mob, and hung twenty for one. Therefore, as mobocracy is a principle of the radical party, it cannot be of the Democratic party. Let Democrats, every where, young and old, respect the laws. Let us display a spirit of peace and good will toward all men; respecting each others rights, and treat the black man with kindness. Democracy is the forerunner of christianity; is founded upon reason. There can be no pure christianity, or lasting peace and prosperity, unless it is sustained by the tolerant spirit and principles of Democracy. With these principles, and good hearts, we will have that peace which passeth all understanding.

As our 'Chicken,' is attending to business closely up North, we have concluded to introduce our Coons, who are merry over the news from California, which has gone democratic by ten thousand majority. The democracy have elected a Governor, two Congressmen out of three, and we have a majority of Legislature, which secures us a Senator. The glorious democracy of Maine have also reduced the republican majority some 8 thousand, in their State elections recently.

Special Notice

A CARD TO INVALIDS.

A Clergyman, while residing in South America as a missionary, discovered a safe and simple remedy for the cure of nervous weakness, early decay, diseases of the urinary and seminal organs, and the whole train of disorders brought on by baneful and vicious habits. Great numbers have been cured by this noble remedy. Prompted by a desire to benefit the afflicted and unfortunate, I will send the recipe for preparing and using this medicine, in a sealed envelope, to any one who needs it, free of charge. Address, J. O. SEPT. T. INMAN; Station D, Bible House, New York City.

An Autumn Suggestion.

Now, as heavy fogs arise and searching winds commence to blow; now, as the human body, exhausted like inanimate nature by the heat of summer, begins to wilt and droop; now, ere the inclement winter makes its trying onset; now is the time for a preparatory course of the best acclimating medicines in existence.

HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS.

Fever and Ague is rampant in all parts of the country. Quinine, the physicians admit, will not quell the phrase of the disease which at present pervades the entire West. It is well that it is so, for the remedy is deadlier than the disease. But if Quinine is inefficient in intermittent fevers,

HOSTETTER'S BITTERS

is irresistible. It would be safe to make a contract, under heavy penalties, that any given Fever-and-Ague District should be exempted from the disorder for any particular time, provided the inhabitants would take the bitters according to the directions, during the term of the contract. There has never been an instance in which this sterling invigorant and anti-febrile medicine has failed to ward off the complaint, when taken daily as a protection against malaria. Hundreds of physicians have abandoned all the official specifics and now prescribe this harmless vegetable tonic, and nothing else, as a preventive and cure for all the forms of chills and fevers. Vigor is the thing most needed in these cases, as well as in dyspepsia and in nervous affections, and are the safest, surest and most wholesome strengthening preparation that human skill has yet concocted. Aug 29-1m

MAGIC BILIOUS

POWDERS!!!

THIS PREPARATION IS THE DIScovery of the Rev. J. W. Poland, formerly pastor of the Baptist Church in Goffstown, N. H., and a man dearly beloved by that denomination through out New England. He was obliged to leave the pulpit and study medicine, and in his own life and his Magic Powders are one of the most wonderful discoveries of modern times. It is the great Liver and Biliary remedy, which completely throws in the shade all other discoveries in medicine; and it affords him much gratification that they receive the unanimous approbation of all who have tested them. The Magic Biliary Powders are a positive cure for Liver Complaint, in its most aggravated form, and an immediate corrector of all Biliary Derangements. Excellent for headache, constipation, pimples, blotches, a sallow skin, drowsiness, dizziness, heartburn, palpitation and a most wonderful cure and preventive for Fever and

Ague. [We advise all who are troubled with this fearful malady to always keep the Powders on hand for immediate use.]

Here are a few important particulars:

The "Lacking" Base Ball Club will complete its organization next Monday, and then business will be business, and we'll bet a thousand wild turkeys that in less than three weeks it will be able to beat any similar organization this side of sunrise.

Marshall Butts, of Covington, brought the black boy Willis, to Cynthiana last week and lodged him in jail. The hundred dollar bill, which he took from his comrade, was found upon his person. He asserts that he only took the money in fun. His old master, one of his best friends, had cautioned him the day before he committed the theft, to be honest and good, but he would not listen to his advice.

We desire to impress upon the minds of our epicurian friends, the fact that Mr. Neibel on Main street has on hand fresh oysters for sale in cans or half cans, or prepared to suit the appetite of the most fastidious, day and night. Call and get a bite.

Mr. Grinnan, our City Surveyor, has just finished an excellent improvement at the entrance of the bridge across Licking. He has built a culvert, and filled up a hole that has been a great annoyance to every one who rides in a vehicle. We favor such improvements, and thank the Council for it.

The Scott county Fair commences on the 17th of this month. A fine display of stock is anticipated. The good people of old Harrison should go up and see.

Don't be afraid to invest 10c, it may secure you 10,000 dollars. We have received the second number of "The Pen and Pencil," a new illustrated weekly, brim full of illustrations and entertaining reading matter. Every purchaser of which will secure a ticket free, entitling him to participate in the distribution of 50,000 in Greenbacks. Sold by all news-dealers, Price 10c with ticket, by mail 12c. T. R. Pawley & Co., publisher, 21 & 23 Ann street, N. Y.

The ladies of Cynthiana and vicinity have gone to much expense and much trouble to get up their tableau, for the benefit of the Monumental Society, and it will be a grand affair. We want our friends and the public generally to be there on Wednesday and Friday evenings, certain, for it will be worth seeing, and then it should be remembered that the object is praiseworthy. Remember our friends who fell for a cause as glorious as it was great, and give a pitance to place a monument to mark the spot where they lie, will show to the world that your principles are more than skin deep. Either do this, or forever hold your peace about your sympathy for those who suffered while you slept in feather beds.

On Saturday the great Tournament takes place at the Fair Grounds. It will be a grand affair. An immense crowd will be in attendance. All the beauty and gallantry of Kentucky will be there. The President, A. J. Beale, has authorized us to say, that the equestrian ring for ladies, has been changed for boys, and that the premium of 25 dollars will be awarded to the best rider, for boys of a certain age. He also requests us to say, that those persons who have subscribed money to the Association will please come forward and pay up, and those that have not subscribed, a chance is yet offered them to do their duty in this work they have undertaken. We hope no further appeal from us or the Association may be necessary.

The thousands who have traveled to and from the Fair Grounds during the last three days, as well as ourselves, speak in high terms of the urbanity of the gentlemanly conductors of the Special train, Messrs. Matlack Charles Gorham. Better or more accommodating or more popular conductors could not easily have been selected.—Paris Reporter.

A Patent Straw Cutter.—Sandusky, Kelly & Co., of Lexington, Ky., are the owners of a new invention, known as the "Patent Straw Cutter," which is one of the best of the kind ever invented. It has a sickle edge and is diamond pointed, and will cut everything from a sheet of paper to an ear of corn, and is better calculated for preparing feed for stock than any other cutter ever introduced in this country. Mr. John Hoggis agent at this place. Price $12.

Millinery.—See advertisement of Devou & Co., Cincinnati. Experience of 20 years in the Millinery business, enables this house to give unusual inducements. They are reliable and head the list of houses in that line.

HARRISON HOTEL HOP.—A Hop will be given at the Harrison Hotel, this Thursday evening, Sept. 12th, 1867. Saxton's Band will be in attendance. Managers, Reed Martin, David Snyder, Wm. Turner, O. Kennard, O. Huffman, Ed. Flannagan.

On Wednesday night, the 4th instance, the residence and furniture of Absolom Clifford was destroyed by fire. He lived near Berry's Station in this county—loss $3,000.

Reynolds & Brother are just about finishing the large distillery in the county at Boyd's Station in this county. They will be able to make forty barrels per day.

A large crowd is in attendance upon our Fair. The fine display of Stock is equal to any former year.

We are requested to say that Aaron Jones will give a sparring exhibition in this city next Saturday afternoon.

DIED.

August 31st 1867, of congestion of the brain Sudie, youngest daughter of T. V. and A. B. Ashbrook, aged 3 years 11 months and 30 days, wanting only one day of being 4 years old. Thus young, loving and beloved, has passed through the eternal gates to the city of the silent dead. God has taken her from this world of suffering to a celestial home not made with hands. She has gone to walk the shining streets of the New Jerusalem, with her little sister Lizzie, who crossed over the dark river of death just 18 months ago, and now side by side they wander through the Garden of Eden, and live on the glories of their home.

Pet. in Equity

By virtue of a judgment of the Scott Circuit Court rendered in the above named action I will sell at public auction to the highest bidder on Saturday, October 2d, 1867.

So much of the tract of land named in the pleadings and exhibits as will satisfy the plaintiff's debt interest and costs.

The first tract is the one on which the defendant resided and embraces all the land on the side of the road where the residence is situated, and contains about

230 ACRES.

The second tract embraces all that portion on the opposite side of the road, being about

125 ACRES.

These tracts are situated in the counties of Scott, Harrison and Bourbon, on the road leading from Georgetown to Leesburg about 7 miles from the former place.

The third tract is situated in Scott county, about 4 miles from Georgetown, adjoining the lands of Jno. M. Burch and others, being the same conveyed by W. A. Thompson to said Edger and contains about with some improvements.

The sales will be made on the respective premises beginning at the residence.
